

Biocultural Restoration

Note: Once digital assets become regulated and it is possible to buy them with credit cards. People will be able to buy the Biocultural NFT's directly from community shopfronts within the app without having to buy a physical product. After the proof of concept we would look to build a social component into the app where people that have the app will eventually be able to share their NFT collections with their friends and even trade them. Whoever holds the NFT will always have access via the NFT to the multimedia data. The marketplace would be reputation based like most modern digital marketplaces and there would be review and rating tools developed with the objective of maintaining high quality authentic data.